Talisman School's Rumored Geniuses..?

Hello! It's Insomnia Weekly's reporter, K!

Everybody, do you know about the Talisman School?

This school was found by retired Talisman to give many opportunities to youths, and just like the name represents, is a school that teaches how to become a Talisman. Of course, you don't have to attend this school to apply for the test.

Normally you can apply after graduating after 5 years, but it also allows honor students to apply without finishing their 5 years— in this place where the principle McFardon, the best of the best, found, 7 graduates and 2 honor students applied this time.

But after visiting the school, there originally were 3 honor students but 1 of them chose to drop out! We asked why to the student.

"The reason I gave up was because my skill was much less compared to the other 2 honor students."

You understand until here right? Amazing right? According to my research, Anton Bashmoph student's grade is 1st among all of the country's schools!

Of course it's hard to judge someone with just his or her grades... but to think someone like this vapor honor student would give up...

Who could possibly be the other two honor students?

Will those two be able to become an official Talisman?

It seems like this year's Talisman test will become more and more amazing as I research it! Please look forward to this year's Talisman test results!!

This was BJ Magazine's reporter K. We'll be back next week with Talisman test's mystery.
